

Allied Airmen Drop More Than 370 Tons of Explosives Over Nipponese Island Defenses

Newest Victims of American Submarines in South Pacific Include Eleven Medium Cargo Vessels, Small Freighter, Transport and Tanker

RABAUH HARBOR AND AIRDROMES BLASTED AGAIN

By Richard C. Bergholz
Associated Press War Writer

American submarines have destroyed 14 more Japanese ships, the navy announced today, and Allied airmen in the south Pacific have broad more than 370 tons of explosives over Japan's island defenses, with most of the destruction heaped on Rabaul, the tottering enemy base on New Britain.

Navy Secretary Frank Knox said the newest victims of American submarines included 11 medium cargo ships, one small freighter, a cargo transport and a large tanker. American undersea craft now have sunk or damaged 611 enemy vessels.

More than 200 planes poured 164 tons of bombs on Rabaul's harbor and one of its protecting airdromes and, according to the communiqué, "pilots reported very heavy destruction."

The raid, which occurred Saturday, was the 12th consecutive daily strike and the seventh consecutive time when Japanese failed to get a single interceptor into the air.

Rabaul's defenders have been pounded with 2,205 tons of bombs during the last 26 days—the worst mauling any Japanese position has ever taken in the South Pacific. In addition to the aerial smashes Rabaul has been shelled twice by marauding destroyer forces.

Other enemy bases in the South Pacific to take heavy blows from the Allied Air Force included New Guinea, where 80 tons of bombs were dropped; Aitape, 90 miles northwest of New Guinea, where 73 tons fell, and the Admiralty Islands in the Bismarck Sea, where Loneragan townships and Momote airdrome were hit with 36 tons of bombs. Wainapopo, far to the west on Soemba Island in the Dutch East Indies, caught 18 tons.

There was no reported action in the Central Pacific, only a Tokyo broadcast claim that the Allies raided Tarao airdrome in Maloclap atoll in the eastern Marshall Islands and Ponape in the eastern Caroline Islands Sunday.

On the Burma front, British troops continued mopping up operations after liquidating an enemy force of 8,000 in the Arakan jungle north of Akyab. Enemy dead was placed at more than 1,500.

The growing string of Allied successes caused the German Transocean News Agency to broadcast from Berlin that the "American advance in the Pacific is no isolated enterprise in which after rapid thrusts the attackers recoil to their original positions."

The broadcast said "Japan must be prepared at any time to sight enemy bombers," but added "it is doubtful whether the Americans in the near future will undertake on the Japanese motherland air raids which could only be nuisance sweeps."

16-YEAR-OLD BOYS IN NEW WAR-TIME RACKET

Philadelphia, Feb. 29.—(P)—A new war-time racket was exposed by police today.

Detective James Kelly arrested two 16-year-old boys and said they had posed as Express Company agents, hunted homes displaying service flags, and collected from the occupants the "charges" on mythical packages "sent from overseas," telling their victims the shipments were due any minute.

They were charged with larceny by trick in obtaining more than $300 from the families of 50 servicemen.

Reduction in Beef and Pork Cuts Go Into Effect Sunday

Washington, Feb. 29.—(P)—Sharp reductions in the ration point values of pork and beef cuts will go into effect Sunday.

But the ration values of veal, lamb, mutton, butter, cheese, and all other fats and dairy products will remain unchanged through March, the office of Price Administration said today in announcing the revision.

Only the values of spare ribs are unaffected in a general reduction of pork points. The cuts range from one to three points bringing the average ration value of pork down to 1.7 points a pound. Beef cuts used for roasts, ribs, steaks and stews are also reduced.

PSKOV UNDER SIEGE FIRE OF RED ARTILLERY

British Radio Says Russians Have Fought Within Six Miles of Baltic Gateway City

650 VILLAGES TAKEN

By RICHARD McMURRAY
Associated Press War Editor

Psikov was reported under Russian artillery bombardment today as the Red army moved within six miles of the Baltic gateway city and struck within 12 miles of Latvia in swift advances which enveloped 650 settlements in the north.

The British radio said the Russians had fought within sight of Psikov and now were battling within the German defenses against stiff resistance.

Two Russian admirals, a general and nine other members of a Soviet military mission to Britain witnessed and participated in American preparations for the invasion of western Europe, the U. S. Navy announced.

The Russians said officially that desertion and defeatism was widespread in German ranks and that mutiny broke out in the Nazi army before Leningrad last month.

Red troops closed on Psikov from three sides amid evidence that German transportation in some sectors was becoming disorganized.

A powerful new offensive west of Novosokolniki overran Slaboda, three miles east of Novorzhnev, which lies 70 miles southeast of Psikov. The swift Russian advances indicated the Germans were abandoning all northwest Russia.

A Russian crime commission held Marshal Fritz Von Mannstein, German commander in southern Russia, responsible for 105,000 murders in Kiev and the destruction of the center of that well loved Ukrainian capital.

19th Operation In Month For Yanks

By GLADWIN HILL

London, Feb. 29.—(P)—U. S. heavy bombers in their 19th operation for February today attacked targets at Brunswick, classified by the Army as "one of Germany's major manufacturing centers."

A communiqué noted that "Brunswick targets twice were attacked in last week's record-breaking daylight offensive against Nazi aircraft component assembly and Allied industries."

U. S. and British fighter planes protected the Flying Fortresses in today's assault.

The February total of 19 operations is seven more than that attained in any previous month. The 18th operation was an attack yesterday against the French "Rockets" coast in which six bombers were lost. Allied medium bombers and fighters struck at the same targets from dawn to noon today.

Developments In Argentina Scrutinized

Diplomats in South America Listening Post Keeping Close Watch

REPORTS EXCHANGED

Montevideo, Feb. 29.—(P)—Diplomats in this South American listening post kept close watch today on developments in restless Argentina, where the situation still was described as fluid following a political upheaval which left Gen. Edelmo Farrell in the role of acting president.

An informant close to the Uruguayan foreign office said that the governments of the American Republic were exchanging confidential reports on Argentine affairs, including the manner in which President Gen. Pedro Ramirez delegated his executive powers to Farrell last Thursday.

A development of major interest was a dispatch from Buenos Aires quoting acting Foreign Minister Diego Mason as saying there would be no change in Argentine foreign policy under Farrell's regime.

The Ramirez government broke off relations with the Axis in January, and had been under fire as a result from certain reactionary elements.

A Socialist deputy meanwhile told the Uruguayan chamber of deputies yesterday that "without any justification an atmosphere of war between sister nations is being prepared which may be the origin of an American catastrophe."

Russians Witness Invasion Rehearsal

London, Feb. 29.—(P)—Russian army and Navy officers witnessed and participated in American preparations for the assault landings on the European continent, the U. S. Navy disclosed today.

"Exercises held jointly by U. S. army and navy personnel in the English coastal area were observed by two Russian admirals, a general and nine other members of the Soviet military mission in Great Britain," the announcement said.

"The exercises constituted a portion of the continuing program whereby American personnel are being trained in the United Kingdom for amphibious operations against the continent."

Philadelphia, Feb. 29.—(P)—A suit for $2,970 for a lost pellet of radium was on file in common pleas court today against Cramp Shipbuilding Company.

The plaintiff, Canadian Radium and Iramium Corporation, of New York, said it leased the pellet—described as deadly—to Cramp's on Sept. 1, 1942. A Cramp's spokesman reported it had been lost or stolen and that the shipyard had been searched with special devices.

REPORT SAYS SWEDEN MAY AID FINLAND

Reliable Informant in Stockholm Says Aid Will be Provided if Armistice Is Arranged

ATTITUDE STIFFENING

By EDWIN SHANKE

Stockholm, Feb. 29.—(P)—Sweden will do its best to provide Finland with food if the Finns quit the war with Russia, a reliable informant said today.

(A German news agency broadcast recorded in London said the Finnish parliament met at 11:30 a. m. in Helsinki with Premier Edwin Linkomies reading a brief resume of the present situation. It was indicated an official communiqué would be issued later today.)

While a Swedish government spokesman refused to say whether an offer of food actually had been made to the Finnish government, it was a good guess that the government had given the Finns some assurance on that point.

Swedish press comment and public opinion generally were hopeful that Finland could find some way out.

It was believed nothing yet had happened that definitely would prevent a Finnish-Russian armistice even though the Finnish attitude had altered perceptibly.

A stiffening of the Finnish attitude likewise was reflected in an Helsinki dispatch quoting the newspaper Social Demokratt as asserting that Russian air raids on the Finnish capital may have jeopardized peace negotiations.

"Force and threats as Russia must know of old, will only give rise to opposite reaction," said the paper, mouthpiece of Finance Minister Viano Tanner's strong Social Democrat party.

An apparent reluctance of the Finnish government to abandon its present policy was further indicated in a freshly-signed Finnish-German trade treaty, announced last night. Finland has depended largely on Germany for food supplies throughout the war.

(A London broadcast, quoting Stockholm sources and recorded by CBS, said a "government statement about the Russian armistice is expected" at a meeting of the Finnish diet today. A Moscow broadcast, also heard by CBS, (Turn to Page Seven)

Little Progress In Loneragan's Trial

By JAMES H. PORTERFIELD

New York, Feb. 29.—(P)—Extremely thorough examination of special talesman at Wayne Loneragan's first degree murder trial forecast today that the job of selecting a jury would be long and slow, with heated clashes between attorneys.

Assistant District Attorney Jacob Grumet, who indicated at yesterday's opening session that the state would accept only persons willing to decree the death penalty, predicted the jury would not be completed before the end of the week.

Only five persons had been examined when the trial was recessed until tomorrow. All were rejected—three by Grumet, one by Defense Attorney Edward V. Broderick and one by agreement.

At the close of the session Broderick repeated his earlier statement that he knew the identity of a lawyer who he said was in the room of Loneragan's wife, Patricia, last Oct. 24, when she was slain.

MAKES RED CROSS PLEA

Harrisburg, Feb. 29.—(P)—Support for the American Red Cross War Fund campaign to raise $200,000,000 during March was urged by Governor Martin who declared it is "the patriotic duty of each and every one of us on the home front to give this noble cause our most generous support."

PER CAPITA INCOME MORE THAN DOUBLED

Washington, Feb. 29.—(P)—One out of every three American families now has an income of more than $3,000 a year, compared with only one in ten families between 1935 and 1940.

A Commerce Department publication also disclosed today that last year's estimated per capita income of $1,050 for every man, woman and child in the country was more than double the 1935-39 average of $520.

Preparations Completed For Red Cross War Fund Drive

Preparations were completed today for the annual American Red Cross War Fund campaign opening in Warren county tomorrow, and in more than 10,000 communities to raise $200,000,000, the minimum required to continue Red Cross services both overseas and at home, Leon Fraser, chairman of the campaign, announced in Washington today.

An estimated 3,000,000 volunteer workers, many of them with sons or husbands in the war, are ready to begin a nation-wide door-to-door canvass to gather in Red Cross contributions, Mr. Fraser said.

Ninety per cent of the $200,000,000 fund, Mr. Fraser reported, will be spent on the ever-expanding Red Cross service to American soldiers and sailors in distant theatres of war, and their families in the United States. Approximately $60,000,000 of the sum to be raised will remain in Red Cross chapters throughout the country for direct aid to servicemen, their dependents in distress, and home front emergencies and services such as disasters.

Suspension of Father Draft Urged by Senators as Most States Lag on Quota Goals

Killed In Action

First Red Cross worker killed in action in this war, it has just been revealed, was Esther Richards, 46, of San Francisco. She is pictured above, peering from a foxhole under her cot in her tent on the Anzio beachhead. A few days later a German aerial bomb struck her tent, wounding her fatally.

Report of Medical Commission on Physical Standards Challenged

SENATORS INDIGNANT

By JACKSON S. ELLIOTT

Washington, Feb. 29.—(P)—Demands that the drafting of fathers be halted pending a review of 5,000,000 occupational deferments were renewed today by senators who challenged a medical commission's report that present physical standards should not be lowered.

With reports from nearly every state showing that draft quotas are not being met, Senators Johnson (D-Colo.) and Wheeler (D-Mont.) criticized both the physical standards and the continuing father draft.

"The armed forces," said Johnson, "have their manpower sights too high."

"When I see 4-F's playing football and baseball and doing all the other things that require physical strength and endurance, I can't be very much impressed with the standards under which they are exempted from service."

Wheeler, noting that a review of 5,000,000 occupational deferments has been ordered, said:

"The least they can do is stop drafting fathers now as I asked them to do early last summer—until this review of deferments in industrial plants and other occupations is made."

Meanwhile selective service directors throughout the country reported almost general failure to meet quotas.

Prime reasons for limited induction, as given by the state directors, were:

1. A hesitancy about drafting fathers, although it was indicated that this feeling is diminishing.
2. Efforts to keep the draft from hindering war production.
3. Delays brought about by a change-over from the former system of "screening" examinations by draft board doctors to one of military physical examinations prior to induction.

Girl Arrested In Mercer Slayings

Mercer, Feb. 29.—(P)—Blonde Janice Graham, 20-year-old farm girl, was arrested this afternoon on warrants charging the murder of Mrs. Katherine Wilson, 78, and Robert McKay, 70, last Oct. at a dairy farm near Mercer.

Miss Graham was placed in the Mercer county jail where she is being held without bond.

District Attorney Edwin C. Moon said she likely will get a hearing tomorrow before Magistrate Thomas McClain. He did not disclose whether new evidence against Miss Graham had been discovered.

TO RECLASSIFY INDUSTRIAL DEFERMENTS

Director Explains Change is Designed To Put Into Service All Physically Qualified Men

OBJECTIVES OUTLINED

By WICK TEMPLE

Harrisburg, Feb. 29.—(P)—A drastic program to speed up Pennsylvania's inductions into the armed forces by cutting down on occupational deferments was ordered today by State Selective Service headquarters.

Col. Richard K. Mellon, state draft director, said the program is designed to put into military service all physically qualified men under 26 years of age now deferred because of their jobs.

"It is now well known that we have not met our calls for the past few months," Mr. Mellon said. "In order to accomplish our primary objective of meeting calls, the following manpower policies will become effective in Pennsylvania March 1:

- "1. No new (industry) replacement schedules will be accepted unless this headquarters is ordered to do so by national headquarters, the secretary of war or the secretary of the navy.
- "2. All replacement schedules presently in effect will be reviewed as quickly as possible to determine: (a) To determine whether a particular schedule should be cancelled; (b) Whether a particular schedule should be revised to provide for a faster rate of release.
- "3. Upon the expiration of present replacement schedules they will not be renewed unless such renewal is vital to the successful prosecution of the war. The number renewed will be drastically reduced.
- "4. All reviewing officers will give the most critical examination to all 2-A and 2-B classifications with the very definite object of eliminating improper 2-A's and 3-B's and getting registrants classified into 1-A, particularly in the case of registrants under 26 years of age.
- "5. No further consideration will be given deferments on a 'locally needed' basis.
- "6. The entire headquarters staff will do everything possible to assist local boards in accomplishing the following objectives: (a) Reclassifying every registrant out of 3-A.
- "B. Reclassifying registrants from 2-C and 3-C where such reclassification is indicated because of the change in regulations on farm deferments, particularly in the cases of registrants under 26 years of age.
- "C. Reclassifying all registrants from 2-A and 2-B where the facts indicate that such classifications are not proper in the light of the present manpower situation.
- "E. Eliminating all improper 3-D classifications.
- "7. From March 1 until March 15, the replacement schedule division will confer with no employer for the purpose of discussing replacement schedules. During this moratorium the replacement schedule division will review existing schedules for the purpose of cutting to the bone and creating 1-A's. Generally speaking I believe that the replacement schedule plan has now served its purpose."

President Roosevelt, by official proclamation, has designated March as "Red Cross Month." In his proclamation message he called upon the American people to observe the month "by opening their hearts to this humanitarian appeal," pointing out that the war has entered a decisive stage "requiring the fullest measure of individual sacrifice."

Norman H. Davis, chairman of the American Red Cross, meanwhile declared the Red Cross during the next twelve months must assume a greater burden than ever before in its history.

URGENT! Said the Navy

... SO HERE THEY ARE

For the Great American HELLDIVER

Urgent and secret was the request to Chrysler Corporation to get ready to build these vital wing sections for the newest, biggest and fastest of Navy dive bombers—the great Helldiver.

Secretly designed to carry heavy loads at fast diving speeds, each wing section contained several thousand parts.

Engineers, tool designers, production experts of Chrysler Corporation went promptly to work. The drawings were made; tools and fixtures designed and installed for the day when the final "Go Ahead" signal would come.

The Go Ahead came in a hurry. Since April '43 these great Helldiver wing sections have moved down their guarded production lines much as automobiles did in former years, their thousands of precision parts assembled, and the wing sections completed.

The Helldivers have recently been fully tested and proven in South Pacific battle; reports of their action fulfill the strong claims made for them; and their wings, we are proud to say, carry their double bomb loads at fast diving speeds.

These Helldiver wing sections are but one of many war-production assignments in which Chrysler Corporation applies its experience and capacity in precision engineering and quantity manufacturing.

CARRIE S. DELAMATER
Carrie Samuelson was born near Chancellors Valley on January 4, 1859, being the youngest of a family of seven children born to Samuel and Christine Samuelson, who were one of the first Swedish families to settle in this vicinity (coming here in 1849).

She was united in marriage to William M. Delamater, of Guys Mills, on October 16, 1883, making their home at the old homestead until the death of her husband on December 26, 1937, and celebrating their golden wedding there on October 16, 1938. To this union two children were born: Ray B. Delamater, of Roundup, Mont., and Mrs. Alice Snyder, who departed this life on February 21, 1932. After the death of her husband she made her home with her son at Roundup until her death on February 9 after a short illness.

The remains were brought to Chancellors Valley, where the funeral was held at the United Brethren church on Wednesday afternoon, February 16, with Rev. F. E. Donaldson officiating. She was laid to rest in the family plot in the Swedish Lutheran cemetery. Many relatives and friends attended the services from Roundup; Buffalo, Lockport, Clarence Center, Jamestown, N. Y.; Warren, Grand Valley, Youngsville and other nearby towns.

Besides her son, she is survived by five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Delamater was a charter member of Valley Grange, which membership she held until her death, having been an active member for half a century. In its membership she will be greatly missed; also by a large circle of friends.

Attention is called to the development of plans for the annual All School Carnival, which has been set for March 17 and which will include the usual auditorium show, midway, gym show, games, refreshments and a dance for old and young.

Less wastage of food in the school luncheon program is mentioned as one of the ways in which students may materially assist in the war program and the presence of war is seen in several of the contributions and in a column entitled "Scuttlebut About Our Girls in Uniform."

The Stenographer's Club spring style show is announced for Wednesday, March 8, with tickets available from any commercial source. Also in prospect is the annual publication of the Dragon, being assembled by Ted Ryberg and his staff.

Other features include personals, sports notes, musical activities, interspersed with the usual gossip and literary notes.

ALL-SYNTHETIC DINNER

An all-synthetic dinner, apparently more pleasing to the palate than the list of ingredients suggest, was served recently in Switzerland.

This included hors d'oeuvres of chemically treated cellulose flavored with coal-tar by-products and a "meat course" made of woodpulp and garnished with synthetic gravy.

The French port of Dunkerque gets its name from an old kirk that was built on its sands.

Ballots in Recreational Poll Of Juveniles Being Tabulated

The ballots in the recreation poll taken at the Warren High School last week are being tabulated by a committee of young people; and the results will be published as soon as they are available. The young people, who will be heard over WJTN this Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in a half hour program on community recreation, will use many of the figures and facts secured in this poll. At Beatty School a similar poll is being planned sometime this week. These polls are being taken so that any suggestions for community recreation planning may be based on actual interests and needs. This information should assist all groups, who are interested in furnishing more wholesome recreation for people in school and out of school.

The sole purpose of the committee on community recreation has been to endeavor to do some preliminary work in discovering interests, available facilities, and to act as a temporary clearing house for various proposals. The spirit of cooperation and interest among the many organizations has shown promise for a real community effort.

After observing the many problems which arise through duplication of effort, other areas which are untouched, conflict in dates, and the inadequate use of existing facilities, the committee made a recommendation to the Warren Borough Council and to the Board of School Directors, which is at present under consideration.

This proposal, which was presented after weeks of study and consultation with recreation experts, recommended that for the most effective and practical planning, the community could be best served by the Borough Council setting up a community recreation commission, which would have the authority to plan and see that a community program would be carried out. It was further suggested that a director would be employed whose full time job it would be to head up and assist in such a program, in order that it would really function effectively. This director and this recreation commission would work with existing agencies and would be responsible for securing the maximum of cooperation and the use of existing facilities. In addition they would be in a position to know best what would be needed and would be able to propose the most practical solutions to the problems which arise in the future.

Sunday's program is being sponsored by the National Forge and Ordnance Company, which also sponsored, with the Community PTA Council, the Open Forum of the Air on the Youth Problem last fall.

Penelec Has Good Record In Fourth Loan

A total of $175,562 in war bonds, or an average of more than $80 per person, is the record attained by members of Penelec during the Fourth War Loan Drive, according to word received today by District Manager J. P. Fenstermacher from President P. H. Harris.

Of the total, $61,262 was in "extra" Series E bonds, purchased in addition to the regular payroll savings plan inaugurated by members of Penelec July, 1942.

The Warren District alone purchased $4,850 worth of bonds during the Fourth War Loan Drive, Fenstermacher stated. This was an average of $131 per member.

Penelec members have pledged to continue to invest in bonds through payroll savings.

In addition to the record of bond sales reached by individual members of the Company, District Manager Fenstermacher stated, Penelec recently purchased in its own name, a total of $500,000 principal amount, in Fourth War Loan Bonds.

RIVER ROSE LITTLE

Despite hard rains of the past weekend the river did not rise as had been anticipated. The highest stage reached was five and one-half feet, which moved out the ice on the stream. The ice in the eddy near Starbuck floated out on Sunday. The plant will be a complete one and will be a worthy addition to the completeness of the Seneca business.

The Osborne Company of Franklin, which did the work on the Hickory street bridge, was also a bidder on the Glade Run job. The fact that repairs are being made does not preclude a new bridge across the river at Glade Run as securing of priorities at present is difficult.

FEBRUARY 29TH NO JACKPOT!

In extending congratulations to those on a long list who are having birthdays today, the first in four years, we are reminded of an editorial written for NEA Service, Inc., and the Times-Mirror by James Thrasher, in which he says that probably no February 29th in the history of the Gregorian calendar was ever greeted more apathetically than this one. The old bissextile custom of letting conventional courtship go unconventional still holds good in 1944, to be sure. But it offers scant hope to the wishful bride.

It isn't the shortage of men that bothers the young ladies so much. It's their tantalizing unavailability. They're overseas, the eligible and desirable ones, or else they are hedged in by military discipline and AWOL penalties halfway across the continent here at home. The whole thing presents a rather depressing challenge to the resourceful female.

And the average female is resourceful, but the situation this year is too much for her. Of course there are exceptional cases like that of the WAVE who got leave, went to the base where her sailor boy friend was stationed, and whisked him off to the altar before he could catch his breath. But the average girl must depend on V-mail and the telephone. And that isn't enough.

Anyone who has either embraced or eluded matrimony knows that courtship is almost hopelessly dependent on propinquity. It is swayed by subtle things like metabolism, vocal nuances, blood pressure, or the way a girl looks in a certain hat. Removed from these persuasions, a young man is likely to become discouragingly conscious of the fact that marriage is a serious step, and not to be undertaken lightly.

We have it from a reliable source that, to most wishful brides, every year is Leap Year. The only difference is that, once in four, a girl can abandon demure stratagems and tag the man right out in the open. This year the advantage is insignificant. She can't tag him till she catches him. And absence makes the quarry awfully wary.

All this leaves a girl a free choice of everything the local draft board doesn't want. Her reaction is best expressed by the reliable source quoted above:

"This year we are faced with two equally frightful alternatives. We will either be accepted or rejected. And most of us don't know which is worse."

No, Feb. 29, 1944, is no jackpot.

That item from the War Finance Committee conveying the information that $29,000 in "E" Bond credit has been awarded to Warren county, representing purchase of War Bonds by members of the Armed Forces in the county, is a challenge to every citizen.

Weather like that of today is just the kind to bring joy to the hearts of owners of sugar bushes in the county.

Whether March comes in like a lion or a lamb, don't be too optimistic until after March 17. Remember 1935?

LENTEN SERMONETTE

Captain A. L. Brandenburg, Warren Salvation Army

A PLEA FOR PAUSE

Text: "Be still and know that I am God."—Psalm 46:10.

Of course, the world cannot get on without noise. Men must build and so we hear the clang of the hammer and the rattle and creak of the giant crane straining with its heavy burden. The war must be won, so we hear the drone of the giant tires on the highway, or the rumbling of the engine on the rails. There are times, indeed, when such noises are as music, for they tell us our country is pulsating, vibrant, alive. But suppose these noises in the modern world succeed in drowning the softer, nobler calls of life. We must not forget that it is character that has to be built, and a social realm perfected in love, honor and justice.

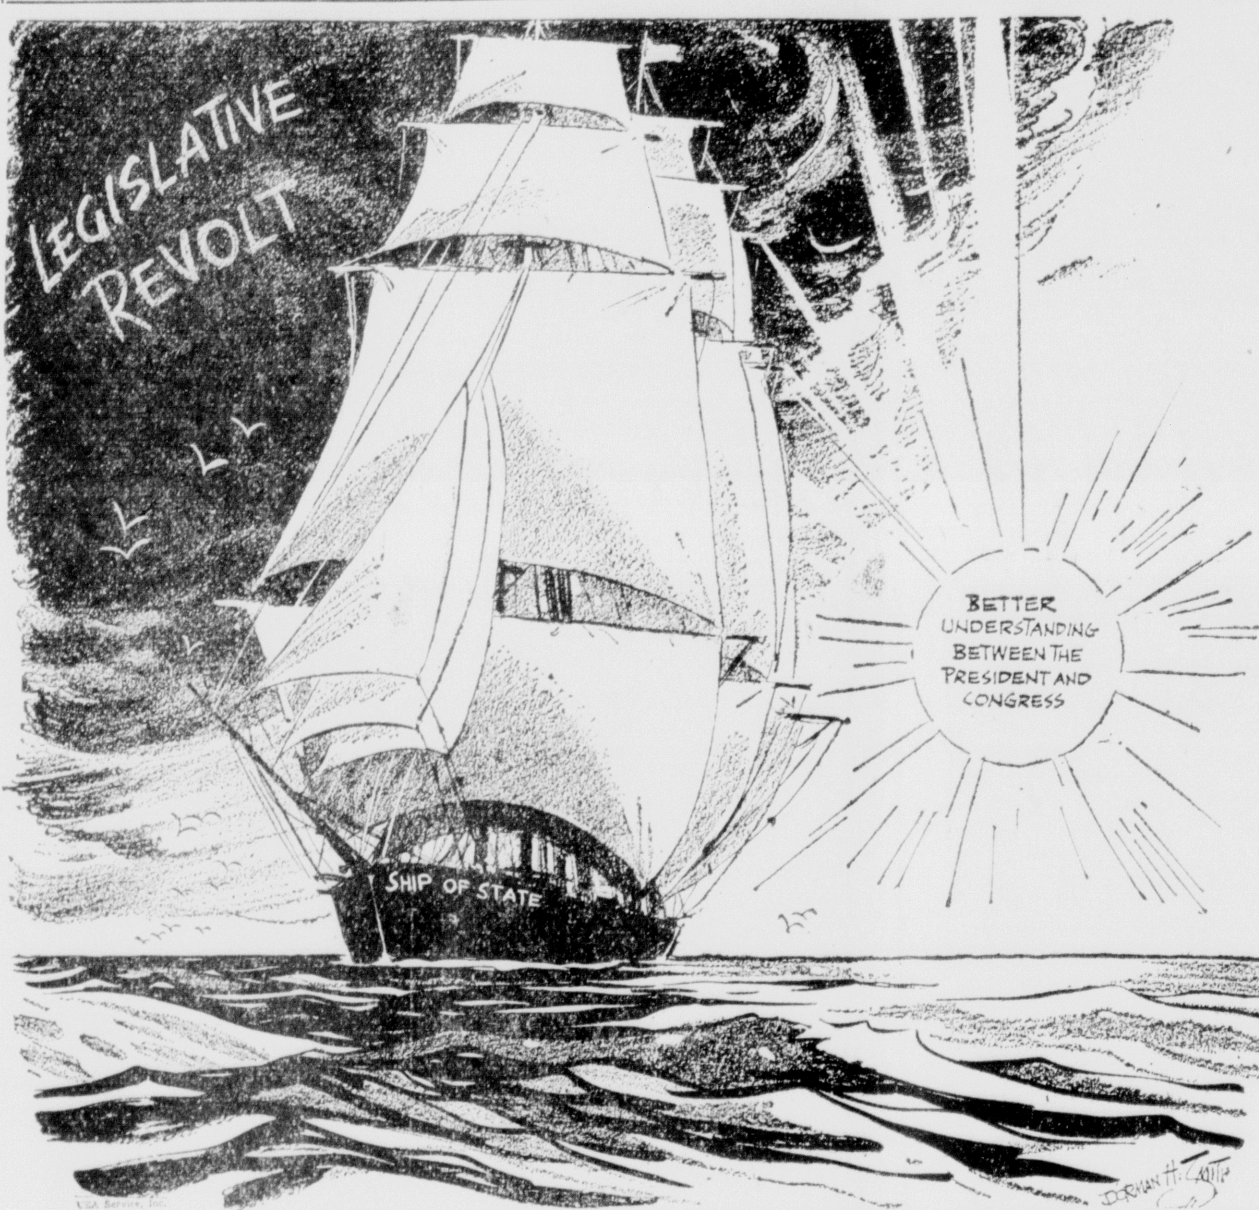

I want to put in a plea, therefore, for silence, in order that our souls may have a chance. This silence I am pleading for is no negative thing, not the mere absence of noise. It is the silence of a Presence, a silence in which we know God to be very real and very near, the silence in which we catch a vision of truth and find our souls strengthened against temptation.

It cannot be without significance that again and again in the Bible we are commanded to pause. You will readily call to mind words like these: Our text, "Be still and know that I am God"; "Stand still and see the salvation of the Lord"; "Stand still, and consider the wondrous works of God." The Bible introduces us to men who discovered quiet prayer. The Psalmist speaks about meditating on God in the night watches. After his conversion, the apostle Paul quitted the city of Damascus and took himself to Arabia, finding, in solitude, the powerful prelude to his most energetic campaigns for Christ.

May I say that in our troubled world today it would be wise to pause, and offer a prayer to God in this manner: Open our eyes, Lord, that we may see what Thou art doing; and open our ears that we may hear what Thou art saying; and open our hearts that we may take in the message Thou wouldst have us hear. Amen.

We are living in troubled times with our world in global conflict. This Lenten season will remind us that we also lived in a very troubled and dark period in the world's history. Christ died to bring light into a dark world. We still have that hope today that Christ will bring light and peace to our war-torn world.

Chapter 24

LAUGHTER echoed from Marek's office as Julie opened the door. The spacious sun-filled office, with its dark green secretary was leaning against the jamb of the open doorway into Marek's private office, joining in the fun.

Marek appeared instantly. "Hello, darling!" he hailed Julie as she came over to her. "We're reading a new re-write of one of your scenes that's really terrific. He's his gaze deepened. He said in a lower voice, "You're dazzling today."

"Thank you," Julie went with him into his office that was ringing now with fresh laughter. Max Burnette stopped pantomiming the scene to wave. Mady Orsdon called "Hello!" from the divan. A fat man was sunk in a leather chair, his pipe chattering between his teeth as he read lines from the script in his hand.

Marek roared "Quiet! Julie, this is Dwayne Harvey, who did the final rewrite."

The fat man struggled to his feet. His loud sport clothes bulged and quivered as he walked. He beamed at Julie with affectionate, squint-eyed appraisal, then, with a flourish, lifted her hand to his lip to misquote sonorously:

"The quality of beauty is not strained. It droppeth like the gentle Mercedes from heaven."

JULIE joined faintly in the laugh. Marek pulled up a chair beside his own and the reading and laughter went on. Vaguely Julie felt it must be funny. Patiently she tried to follow the delicately-timed build-up to the topper of each new gag. But she had come in too late to be hypnotized by the rhythm. She grimaced amusement but she felt none. Since that strange feeling of unreality had caught her, she seemed to have little control over her responses.

It was like being in a stratosphere too rarified for normal functioning. Where the air was not for breathing, but to mirror and reflect. She was aware of little beyond herself—sitting here in this great paneled office with its water colors of Paris and its windows looking out onto the enormous studio patio, herself surrounded by these people hired to draft and erect the tangible structure on which could be displayed that mysterious, compelling essence of glamour she had somehow distilled within herself. The voices went on around her—rising, falling in a swift staccato. Laughter—arguments—suggestions breaking the expert pacing of the dialogue.

Beyond the wide low window the studio life drifted past—on the street that bordered the patio. Extras in dark-green makeup moved in chattering groups, studio open trucks rolled by piled high with lights, booms, camera equipment. Mail boys afoot or on bicycles carried scripts, large manila envelopes. A couple of publicity men were shooting stills of some starlets by the central fountain.

Her world now—the world into which she had been swept by whimsical, compelling forces. Forces that were grinding relentlessly on, carrying her in their wake. The thought that had come to her before she opened Marek's outer door. "Probably I shall be a really great actress if Dave is killed!"

Suddenly the thought was real. . . . It smashed through the opaque dream world she had been caught up in with the searing pain of real agony. She clutched the arms of the chair she was sitting in and screamed. "No!"

Silence. They were all staring at her. She crimsoned with embarrassment, tried to explain. "I'm so sorry—I was thinking of something else. . . ." Her lips quivered.

MAREK said, "This is damnable! Julie's had a hell of a week. No time to shoot a lot of half-cooked gags at her." Marek's secretary brought Julie a glass of water while the group made their hasty and apologetic exit. Marek came back and held her hand in both of his. "Forgive me, darling?"

"Of course, Marek." She was trembling. Her voice felt hot and heavy in her throat. "Marek, I can't do it."

He frowned, puzzled, and said gently, "You can't do what?" "Be a star."

His frown cleared. He pressed her hand tenderly. "Poor, lovely darling," he said. "You're scared . . . scared out of your wits, and exhausted. Just believe me, Julie. You won't be anything. When the time comes for you to act, you'll be ready—you'll have technique and fire and feeling."

He stopped at Julie's scream. Her dark eyes were wide with fear. "No!" she screamed. "No—I won't! I won't! She felt as if the worst battling with every ounce of strength she had against that relentless, fearsome, guiding force that was bound to grind out her heart, shape her to a destined form. . . .

"Dave is not going to be killed," she said in a taut, high voice. "and I'm not going to be a great actress!"

"You're hysterical." His eyes calmed her. She knew she was hysterical. She let him guide her to her chair and sat obediently while he stroked her hand and talked quietly about pulling herself together.

But her resolve remained. She couldn't explain it logically. She couldn't combat his sound arguments. All she knew was that she couldn't concentrate on this creature they were trying to make her. Her life, it she wanted to breathe again, would have to be centered on Dave.

HELPLESSLY she watched Marek's persuasion pass from gentleness to impatience and at last to anger. She had never seen him angry. She was frightened before the blazing fury of his black eyes.

"Of all the fools!" He broke off with almost physical effort at control. He stood facing her rigidly, his jaw clenched tight for a long bitter minute. Then he relaxed, again with that deliberation effort. His lips twisted into a sardonic line. "Humor, and a turn of mind, and walked back around his desk and sat down.

"I'd like to shake your teeth out, you know," he said evenly. "But, as usual, it's my funeral. Every time I play the sap—" His sensitive finger was pressing the buzzer on his desk. He looked up as his secretary appeared in the door and ordered stonily:

"A taxi for Miss Brampton."

Byron Swanson
Is Given Role
In City Opera

Friends of Byron Swanson, for- mer Warren and Youngsville mu- sician, will be interested in news just received from Pittsburgh that he has been selected to sing the role of Laertes in the opera "Mignon" to be presented by the Pittsburgh Opera Society in Stephen Foster Memorial Audi- torium on April 20-21st.

This is the young singer's first venture into the opera field and the news is particularly pleasing in that the entire cast, with one exception, will be composed of well known Pittsburgh singers. The exception is the role of Wilhelm, which will be sung by Robert Rus- sell, New York City tenor.

Mr. Swanson, former choir di- rector at Grace Methodist church and supervisor of music in Youngsville High School, is coach- ing voice with Richard Karp, di- rector of the Pittsburgh Opera Society and, before coming to Pittsburgh five years ago, director of opera in Dresden and Dussel- dorf.

At his own school, Mr. Swanson is preparing for a presentation of "Carmen" by 70 singers and or- chestra on March 17.

Following devotions conducted by Mrs. R. W. Mackay and an out- line of the past year's activities and accomplishments by commit- tee chairmen, the Second Auxil- iary Missionary Society re-elected the following slate of officers at its annual meeting in the church parlors:

Unusually Fine Audience-Program For Prayer Day

World Day of Prayer, a program held annually on the first Friday in Lent, was observed in St. Paul's Lutheran church Friday afternoon, with Grace Methodist and Calvary Baptist churches associating.

Mrs. Harold Nelson, vice presi- dent of the Mission Study Group, led the devotional period and Mrs. Martin Hamlin sang "Why I Love Him". She was accompanied by Mrs. John Ekey, who also provided the instrumental music through- out the program.

The day's theme was "And the Lord Wondered That There Was no Intercessor". Leaders were Mrs. William Rohrer, Mrs. Donald Chesnut and Mrs. Robert Young, assisted by Mrs. F. H. Hetrick, Mrs. Nelson Johnson and Mrs. W. G. Cable. Miss Jane Barlow spoke on the four avenues of Christian service for which the World Day of Prayer offering is used. Special prayer periods were led by Rev. J. H. Cruickshank, Mrs. Wayne Furman and Rev. Harold Knappen- berger. The program concluded with prayer and benediction by Rev. Martin Hamlin.

There was a large number present for this Day of Prayer for peoples of all nations and espe- cially inspiring was the thought that the day was being uniformly observed around the entire world. The interest was evidenced in the generous offering of $58.77.

Acting as ushers for the service were Mrs. Clement Anderson, Mrs. Emmett Ecklund, Mrs. H. L. Knap- penberger and Mrs. A. Danielson.

Mrs. Homer Swick, president of the Mission Study Group, has an- nounced the next regular meeting will be held March 31 in North Warren Presbyterian church with Trinity Memorial and the Emanuel Evangelical and Reformed churches cooperating.

Production Crew Important Factor In Play's Success

The success of Players' Club pro- ductions is due not only to long re- hearsals of the splendid casts but to the untiring efforts and final re- sults achieved by production com- mittees who work even longer hours and at more tedious jobs than the cast itself.

The setting for "Junior Miss", forthcoming midwinter produc- tion of the Players, was designed and executed by Tom Schorman, who was assisted by Howard Lauf- fenburger, Charles Beck and other members of their committee.

Stage manager is Guinevere Knapp; properties are being hand- led by Mildred Schorman; cos- tumes by Joan Hoyer and Betty Ridselberger; makeup is being done by Byron Knapp; lighting by William Dashem and Fern Most- ert. Program advisor is Patty Smith and the book is being held by Anne Krantz Hyatt.

Members of the High School Dramatic Club were guests of the club last night for an entertaining preview of the production to be seen by the public at 8:30 p. m. on the evenings of Thursday and Fri- day.

Box office reservations started last night and good seats are still available for either night's per- formance.

Realism...now and after the war

WE HEAR a great deal these days about post-war planning. Some of it seems sound and practical, and some of it is "crystal gazing."

While literally hundreds of public and private agencies are thinking of postwar planning, there are a few things that realistic individuals are sure of. They know that first and foremost the war has to be won and nothing should interfere with all-out efforts toward this end.

They know that economic tides ebb and flow; that the future, like the past, will experience good times and bad; that when bad times come, many people will face economic hardships.

They know that they, like everyone else, are growing older; that the life of any individual is uncertain; and that in accordance with the immutable laws of nature, heads of families will continue to pass on.

Knowing these things, some 30 million people insured by Metropolitan are providing definite measures of protection against these uncertainties of life through some 29 billion dollars of life insurance.

In addition to providing an anchor to windward for the individuals involved and for their families, the thrift of these policyholders is bound to be of a stabilizing character during the postwar period.

This is Postwar Realism of the highest order.

We promise

At the top of every War Bond you buy are these words:

"The United States promises to pay..."

Those may not sound like such brave words. But actually they are the hope of the world!

THEY ARE a promise by the country to its citizens, but also a promise by the citizens to the country and to the people of the world; a promise that obligations recognized and accepted will be paid in full.

The millions of us who buy those Bonds, do proudly and solemnly promise:

... that partial victory shall not breed the kind of weakening over-confidence which can rob us of complete victory;

... that unity shall rise above all squabbles, and differences;

... that this war shall be fought through to a finish with all that we have and all that we are;

... that the sacrifices of today, and the larger sacrifices of tomorrow, shall be accepted willingly, in the humble knowledge that they are small when set beside the sacrifices of our men who are fighting;

... that we will not turn our backs on the rest of the world after victory is won; but will reach out the hand of friendship, and assume our proper share of responsibility in seeing that freedom, equality, and orderly justice become possible for all people, everywhere;

... that neither our own fighting men nor any of our allies shall be let down in any way whatsoever now, or in the hard-fighting days to come, or in the peace that will follow victory;

... that we, the people, will dig into our pockets, purses, and savings to make the success of the War Bond program a symbol of our determination.

These things we subscribe to. These things we believe in. These things we promise.
